JOHNNY WONDER

Q. WHAT CAUSES A MIRAGE?

RENEE CASSE, OF LINDEN, N.J., WINS A PRIZE FOR THIS QUESTION.

Desert travelers often tell of seeing distant pools of water, only to have the water disappear when they drew near. These vanishing images are called mirages. Mirages happen when the hot desert sand heats the air just above the ground. This layer of hot air reflects the light coming from the sky, just as a mirror does. The traveler sees a reflection of the sky, and the reflection looks like water. By bending light rays, layers of cool and warm air can also produce mirages that make distant buildings and other far away objects look closer than they actually are.

You can win a World Almanac if your question is selected. Send your name and age to JOHNNY WONDER, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 1254, Santa Cruz, CA 95061.
